WESTERN MEN SHOW SPIRIT AT MEETING

Sir Arthur Currie Spoke During the Evening

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Club Makes Extensive Plans For Coming Session

About one hundred men were present last evening at the opening meeting of the Western Club in the Union Cafeteria.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. J. A. Parker president who called on Sir Arthur Currie guest of the evening to address the men.

Sir Arthur expressed his gratification at seeing the large turnout and said he was certain that this justified the spirit of the western men at the University. He pointed out that Canada was indeed a unity and it was the duty of a college like McGill to bring together the youth from the various provinces. He went on to say that as the various provinces were unified into solid Dominion so the Dominion itself was an integral part of the vast British Empire.

The president then expressed his desire that all western men in the University should join the club and get together to make it a success and a factor in college life. He said that the executive had made extensive plans for the coming session including a skating party and Dance to be held later on in the term.

It was decided that the club should hold monthly meetings in form of smoking or entertainment, and acting on the suggestion of Sir Arthur would invite some prominent western man in the city at the time, to be the guest of the evening.

A novel feature was introduced last evening, the men from the various provinces wearing different colored paper hats to distinguish them. Music and refreshment concluded the evening.

The officers of the club for the coming session are as follows:

Dr. J. L. Todd Hon. Pres.
J. A. Parker, President.
T. M. Jones, Vice-Pres.
J. G. P. Clarendon, Treas.
S. K. Clark, Sec.

Representatives from the various provinces as follows:

British Columbia: J. Hemecken; Alberta: E. M. Cooper; Saskatchewan: Elliot; Manitoba: Woods.

ROOTERS TO GIVE WORTHY FAREWELL

Football Team Leaves Tomorrow.

A goodly number of rooters is expected to meet in the Union to-morrow morning at 9.15 to give the football team a rousing send-off.

The squad leaves with confidence of their ability to beat Varsity on Saturday, but an appropriate farewell by the student body as represented by the rooters will add to their high spirit. Elaborate send-offs are a part of the rooters' junctions at other universities, and should be instituted at McGill.

"Teedles" Thompson and his subordinates promise a fitting send-off to the team and hope that they will receive adequate support from the student body.

ELEPHANTS AT PLAY.

Special facilities for observation of the way of elephants is afforded at the elephant reserve in Cape Colony, South Africa.

One of the ponds visited by them has on one side a very steep bank. Sometimes the elephants, after drinking amuse themselves by sliding down the incline, sitting on their haunches. The youngsters occasionally hesitate to indulge in this sport and they are then coaxed up to the top and shoved off.

This recalls another naturalists' observation, made by Dr. Carpenter, near Victoria Nyanza. He says that the only entrance ways into some of the waters are grooves cleared in the banks by the heavy bodies of the hippopotamuses as they climb in and out. But these grooves are entirely in the way of business and not for fun.

As he was making his way down to the water along one of these passages it was perhaps natural that Dr. Carpenter should wonder what would happen if a hippopotamus should chance to choose the same moment for coming up. One thing was clear, the hippopotamus could not turn.

Dr. Carpenter gives the hippopotamus a good character; it is gentle if unmolested, he says, and it does not seem to have occurred to him that infringing of a right of way might point of view of the hippopotamus.

VOTING FOR THE UNION COMMITTEE

Sci. Representative Elected by Acclamation.

KEEN COMPETITION.

Arts, Medicine and Dentistry Each Have Three Candidates.

The student body is reminded that the election of the faculty representatives for the Union House Committee will take place to-day in the different faculty buildings. The candidate for Science, George Lennox Kezar, Sci. '23, was elected by acclamation, but in Arts, Medicine and Dentistry, there will be keen competition as there are three candidates from each faculty.

All undergraduates in Arts, Dentistry and Medicine are therefore urged to utilize their voting privilege and to cast their ballot for the man whom they think best fitted to represent their faculty on the Union House Committee.

We, the undersigned, nominate G. B. Puddicombe, Arts '23, for the Arts representative on the Union House Committee:

J. A. Ogilvy,
H. M. Prudham,
C. H. Whitmore,
Norman Egerton,
G. W. MacGinn,

CONVERSAT. AT THE HALL LAST NIGHT

Strathcona Hall
Large Crowd Gathered in

MANY FRESHMEN.

Excellent Music Furnished by Mandolin Club.

The annual Conversat took place last night at Strathcona Hall and this event maintains its traditional success. A large number of undergraduates took advantage of the opportunity afforded them by this social function, to make the acquaintance of some of our seniors, and for the most part met with considerable success. Representatives of every faculty and every year came in on the evening's entertainment, which, with the exception of an instance or two of some young lad who on account of intrigue or accident was unable to find his particular partner, was conducted with unusual smoothness. The spirit manifested by the participants was particularly gratifying.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the Mandolin Club whose syncopated tunes found such favor in the ears of the undergraduates, that one or two young Freshmen could not refrain from "tripping the light fantastic toe" on time with the melodies. It was a great disappointment to the youngsters to be impressed with more or less violence of their lack of decorum.

The Hall was very tastefully decorated with the University colors which formed and ideal setting for the occasion.

Dr. MacKay of the Law Faculty and Mrs MacKay were the hosts of the evening and showed a sympathetic interest in the newcomers. The wisdom of the choice became more apparent as the evening progressed and Dr. and Mrs MacKay added to its pleasantness.

Mention should of course be made of the serving of delicious refreshments, which, if the speed with which they were consumed is any criterion, were of a high order of excellence. In this connection it might be added that the Freshman behaved remarkably well and showed some signs of disappearing greenness.

On the whole, the Conversat proved very successful and the Committee who organized the affair should be highly commended for its efforts.

R.V.C. WILL HOLD DANSANT SATURDAY

To Be Preceded by Field Sports.

On Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the annual R. V. C. Sports meet takes place in the R. V. C. grounds, and this event is to be followed by a "the dansant" in the Convocation Hall. Arrangements are now well under way, and it is expected that this will, on every day, be a great success. Tea will be served in the R. V. C. Common Room, and for dancing the Convocation Hall has been reserved. The services of three pieces from Le Baron's orchestra have been secured. Entrance to Sports is by the gate on the East side of the R. V. C. grounds behind the college, and entrance to the "the dansant" by the front door. Tickets at 75c each are now on sale at the Union and at Strathcona Hall, or they can be obtained from R. V. C. students, the proceeds to go the R. V. C. Athletic Association.

SAYS THE FROSH
REPORTER—

This here paper will sure be one hummer. Wait till the boys in Arts '25 hear about it, they'll show the world what they know. This bunch of sophs. have thought that they were the whole cheese around the place, but we'll show them that its quality and not quantity that counts, and a little limburger will back a load of pimento off the map.

And these Freshettes. Say, boy, you can't tell me that they all come to this place to get an education. Lucky, says I, that we don't take many lectures together or there'd be some rip roaring times around the old building. Just sneak a few of their pictures on the front page, and the boys who come late for the nine o'clock lectures wont have any news to read during the long suffering period that ends at 9.55 a.m.

The only thing is, I'm afraid some of the other classes'll get sore because they haven't got a paper. In any case the best paper ever printed first. More power.

MONTREAL, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1921.

POOR LECTURERS.

About this period of the session, every year, comes a series of complaints from students about professors and lecturers who insist on spending more than the time allotted to them each day in discussing their subjects. Many of them will continue speaking far after the bell has rung for the conclusion of their lecture, and, as a consequence, the following lecturer has necessarily to curtail his subject in order to keep within the time allotted to him.

If the lectures were particularly interesting the students might not notice the fact that the time was passing, but it is a notable fact that the poorest and most uninteresting lecturers are those who are unable to finish their subject within the time allowed to them.

Students are being continually told to arrange their work in a schedule so that a certain amount of time will be given to each part of their work. It is rather difficult for them to follow the advice given to them when the lecturers themselves have no trace of system in the way they conduct their courses.

THE INTELLECTUAL.

Recently the intellectual has been the target of a volley of reproaches. He has been harried, vilified, and scorned. A wave of antagonism to him followed the war mania, since mob suspicion was sure to detect in him the menacing red streak of a revolutionary. Conditions have little changed within the last few years, and the intellectual is still an object either of benevolent contempt or downright hostility.

But what is this peculiar sort of a creature we dub an intellectual? Is he the wild-eyed malcontent and mystic rebel so threateningly pictured by the yellow press who find no cruelty painful enough to ascribe to him? Or is he the weak-willed blind enthusiast, striving after butterfly creations of his imagination. Indeed, there are some who are all that and perhaps the world is right in denouncing them.

But far more numerous and important are those groups of intellectuals who see in society and in life more than the primitive rudimentary elements of food getting, self preserving, and replenishing the earth. They view life as capable of being moulded to the needs of men and fashioned to their ideas and ideals. They find in life's mystic interests and subtle values unconceived by the man of the street. They regard culture as the highest achievement of the human heart.

The true intellectual is one who, silently working in his mental laboratory, plans and thinks, and hopes to add his atom of strength and knowledge to the compound wisdom of the ages. He alone keeps alive the fires on the hearthstones of art, literature, and philosophy. He alone has the power and vision to guide and predict.

Against such types the world can least afford to bear ill-will. The tragedy lies in the poverty of their numbers rather than in the peculiarities of their manner or teaching. Our country has yet to learn to put a premium on its intellectuals and thereby give impetus to those forces that make for a higher American life.—"The Daily Cardinal."

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office — that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY. No communication will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

To the Editor,
 McGill Daily:

Dear Sir,—Now that the Centennial Re-union is a thing of the past, studies are becoming predominant in the minds of the students. However, I notice through the columns of the "Daily," that the various sectional, educational, musical, social, commercial, athletic, historical and economical clubs are being reorganized for the coming year. All these clubs are necessary in College life. Without them we could not attain perfection. And while not wishing in any way to slight the importance of these clubs, I would suggest the formation of one or two more that are now found in some universities. In fact they would be extremely popular here, as they are in great favor among the undergraduates, although not organized to any degree.

The first club would be the "African Golf Association." This game was originated by the spotted ivory traders in Africa, and has spread to all parts of the world. With this African Golf a student can make more in one day than Miss Cecil Leitch can make in a week, and can lose more in the same time than would finance any bank of Canada. The headquarters of this association could be located in the smoking room of the Arts Building, in the west wing of the Medical Building, or in the secret abode of the Science golfers in the Science Building. The main difference between African and Canadian Golf is that "Seven" instead of "Fore" is the lucky number. However, full details could be put down in a natural constitution.

The other club which would be extremely popular with both the ladies and gentlemen is the "Tiddle Top Club." The game is very simple. Provided one can read, all one has to do is to watch the little top tiddle and then either put or take, as directed. The fees to this club would not be as high as to the African Golf Association, because the benefits to be derived are not as large.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am sure many undergraduates from all faculties and from all years would welcome the formation of these pleasure clubs, and I hope in the near future to see, in the "What's On" column, the hours arranged for their meetings.

Thanking you, Sir, for your valuable space,

I am,
 Sincerely,
 "PUT FORE."

To the Editor, McGill Daily;

Sir:

With regard to the sale of rooters tickets to the game with Queens last Saturday afternoon, I would like to ask of those in charge why it was that those who were unfortunate enough not to obtain their tickets on Friday afternoon, were called upon to pay the extra price in order to get them the next morning.

Of those who left it until Saturday morning before obtaining tickets I am sure very few did so through neglect or any other such cause. Most of these late-comers were unable to attend the Rooters practise on Friday because of the fact that they had lectures at that hour, and it hardly seems fair that these fellows should be thus taken advantage of. This same condition prevailed in the selling of tickets for the game between Toronto and McGill the previous week.

We would be glad if some explanation were forthcoming from those in charge of this part of the program.

A ROOTER
 Montreal, Oct. 24, 1921.

Editor of the McGill Daily,

Dear Sir:

During the past few weeks it has been a matter of keen disappointment to many loyal sons of Old McGill and devoted followers of its greatest sport, to be denied admission to the Stadium to witness the workouts of our gridiron representatives. Since the football season began in earnest the team has been practicing daily behind closed doors and this, to a student body which has the opportunity of seeing its team in action only twice (and this year three times) during the entire season is particularly regrettable.

The football team forms, perhaps, the most important activity of the undergraduates, and to deny the student the privilege of turning out to witness his favorites at work, a privilege of which men of McGill have in the past availed themselves to a marked degree, is to destroy one of the most important factors in the making of that much discussed "college spirit."

True, from the coach's point of view, there is a great advantage to be derived from secret practices. It assures him that no opponent scout is on hand to spy on the squad and prevents our rivals from obtaining "a line" on our team. But considering that measures could be adopted such as keeping the spectators at a distance great enough to prevent their hearing the signals, and having, say, one or two secret drills prior to each game, when important plays could be tried out, is the advantage now derived sufficiently great to overbalance the loss to the student body?

There is the further consideration that holding closed practices daily throughout the season gives intercollegiate athletics too much the air of professionalism and this should be carefully guarded against. It leads to the impression that the purpose of intercollegiate competition is purely and solely an effort to win and tends to leave into the background the thought that the development of sportsmanship in the predominant purpose of such competitive sports.

At American Universities where secret practices first began to be resorted to, the idea has encountered the severe criticism of the public and at most colleges only two or three secret drills are engaged in during the season and these take place only immediately prior to the important matches. At some institutions including the University of Pennsylvania secret practices have been entirely abandoned with no apparent falling off in the success of the teams.

It is the opinion of many men around the University that McGill would benefit by following the example of the above named colleges.

Yours respectfully
 CHARLES H. GOREN,
 Law '22.

President, Students Council,
 McGill Union.

Dear Sir:

We the undersigned beg to report that we have proceeded with the business of obtaining transportation for McGill Students to Toronto on Saturday, Oct. 29th, and regret to state that no arrangements could be made which would be satisfactory.

The following information was obtained:

1.—It is prohibited by the Railroad Act to use cattle cars, box cars etc, for the purpose of transporting passengers.
 2.—No suitable rate could be obtained for Colonist or other 3rd rate cars, other than regular railway rates.

3.—Your committee got in touch with the Gen. Manager of the Grand Trunk, the Gen. Manager of the C. N. R., and the President of the C. P. R., who were in entire sympathy with the scheme for cheap transportation for McGill students, but these officials could do nothing in face of the regulations of the Com. Passenger and Freight Association, which defines all railway rates.

4.—The matter was placed before the Car. Passenger & Freight Association thing in face the regulations of the C. P. R., and Chancellor of the University, however no concessions were made. Mr. Beatty also got in touch with the other railways; but the summation of all efforts did not result in any gain whatever.

5.—There is a clause in the Railway Act which forbids free transportation to other than certain certified Railway officials.

Your committee wish to state that every encouragement and assistance was given by the Principal Sir A. W. Currie, the Vice-President Dean F. D. Adams and the Bursar, Mr. A. P. Giassco, without whose assistance nothing could have been done.

Yours truly,
 A. R. LAWRENCE

PHILOSOPHERS OUT FOR BANNER YEAR

Officers Elected and Program Discussed To-night.

This afternoon, at 4.30 o'clock, the Philosophical Society will hold its initial meeting of the season in the Smoking Room of the Arts Building.

The Society extends an invitation to attend to all students, both men and women, who are interested in philosophy or psychology, whether they are taking courses in those subjects or not. Six meetings are held during the year, at which papers are read and, afterwards discussed. These papers and discussions have always been both interesting and stimulating.

The Arts Faculty has each year given the Society its whole-hearted support, and it is confidently expected that they will be able to attend its first meeting.

At this meeting the officers for the coming session will be elected, and for that reason a large attendance is requested. All those who intend to join are urged to come along and do so to-night at 4.30 in the Smoking Room of the Arts Building — and be on time.

White caps, and gowns for commencement instead of black will be worn by Faculty and students at the University of Philippines on account of the tropical climate.

PEPYS AT MCGILL

Wednesday, Oct. 26th. —My new zeal for foote-ball led me into a pretty scrape this day, being nothing less than the loss of one dollar which I heedlessly cast away on a sort of gaming device or pool set out by my fellows. The more shame to me in that I had taken oathe only a month since to game no more after the loss of some twelve stout cents at poker-play. Very like this was a punishment for my so swearing falsely. Quite sorrowful all day at my losing, so that I did resolve to betake me to the Conversat, and chiefly to find out what manner of thing it might be; only I could not buy me the high glossed collar and green silk tie that I had resolved on, being now so much in penury, which I thought a great pity and so all they I spoke to. Such a motley host of the women students there as I never did see, and all of us pressing and crowding each other about in a scant space. At length I espied her who had sought to vamp me but yesterday at the Arts Building, and lost but little time in asking her to hold converse with me, for so it seems is a custom at these places, and not a bad one neither, only I spoke so many compliments and pretty conceits that my neck is like to be raw for a week from it. Sure I am that I made my mark as a man of wit, for I related to my fresher charmer divers droll tales concerning the Second Charles and my Lady Castlemaine, which I had found set down in grandiose Pepys' diary; she seeming vastly amused at these, I noticed the while that she is what the French would call a "blonde", which I like passing well though hitherto more amiable to dark wenches. Of the other converse that I held I cannot recall much, to set down as my eyes would always follow her fair tresses about the hall. The merry-making done I would have spied home only my young mistress swooped down on me in so pretty a manner that I was fain to ob-

AMERICAN FOOTBALL

Coach Alonzo Staggs of the University of Chicago led a team of stalwart maroon-clad men, eager and hopeful, into the Palmer Stadium when the veteran Yale baseball and football star left the field the ferocious Tigers had been tamed and humbled The Westerners, playing one of their first inter-sectional games in many years, won their first game against the sons of Nassau, completely outplayed the Orange and Black, the final score, 9-0, failing to measure the difference between the two teams.

By the margin of a single touchdown Yale triumphed over the Army eleven in the "reunion game" between the two schools. The score was 14 to 7 when the Bulldog finished grappling with an opponent that promised to be easy, but turned out to have a punch concealed in each hand.

This resumption of the historic series between the Elis and the Soldiers from Westpoint was the biggest football spectacle of the year so far at Yale. A crowd that reached the proportions of about 73,000 attended this reunion and was treated to a game chockful of thrills until the timekeeper's whistle ended the action. But it was not exactly a complete victory for the Elis. Their goal line was crossed for the first time this season, and a determined Army onslaught nearly evened the score in the closing moments.

The Bulldog was limping but able to stand up and look around when the game ended. Moreover, he had some cause for good humor, for Coach Tad Jones had demonstrated that he has a good team up his sleeve. It outplayed the Cadets and deserved to win but the Blue will have few closer calls.

For myself as her escort, though mighty tired withall. Thinking on my losses at the pool I bethought me, to save by not taking the public coach, and so slyly bade her walk with me the night being fair, but to my confounding I found she lived some three leagues off to the west. Home footsore and weary, and so to bed.

Yesterday gave us the first touch of frost.

It will not be long before it will be real cold.

For those days we have a dandy muffler.

Only $2.00 and every thread pure wool.

Dandy colors, either self tone or with colored bars. Full length and about twelve inches wide.

Come in and get one. Men's separate entrance on Union Avenue.

"SHAG" PUTS MEN THROUGH STIFF GRIND

Eddie Brown Gives Able Assistance.

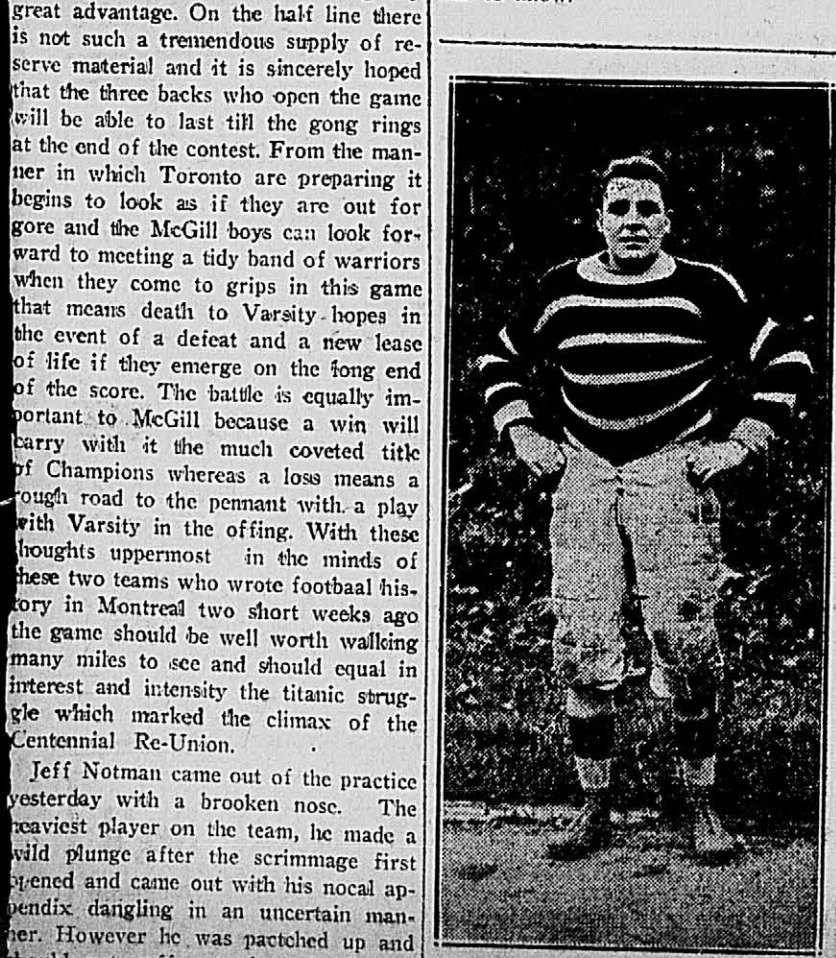

IMPROVED TEAM.

Notman Suffers Injury in Practice.

Yesterday's activities at the Stadium consisted mainly of instruction in the correct manner of playing each particular position. With Eddie Brown, All American end on deck for the first time the squad was put through one of the most instructive practices of the year. Brown who in the heyday of his career reached the pinnacle of football fame in winning a place on the team which is supposed to represent the best that the year has produced in American rugby will be of inestimable value to the team during the coming week. The former Syracuse star won glory as an incomparable end of position, which corresponded to outside wing in the Canadian line-up, and as such he will be able to give the instruction of a master in those positions where the Red and White warriors have shown to poor advantage. In the game with Varsity the Toronto men had a decided advantage at the outside positions and it was probably their superiority here that was responsible for the fact that the Queen-city lads were able to force our backs to eat humble pie but with these few days tuition under such a man as Brown there is bound to be a marked improvement and as a result Varsity edge in this department will it is hoped disappear. There are many questions being asked as to why a graduate from another University should offer his services free and as to whether or not he is receiving anything in the way of pecuniary remuneration. The persons who ask these questions are not worthy of the consideration that an answer to them would give but in justice to a gentleman and a good sport it is only fair to say that anything that Eddie Brown is doing for McGill he is doing out of the goodness of his heart, and that it was his own suggestion that he should leave his business for a fortnight and come to Montreal to lend his brains and ability as well as his intimate knowledge of the American game to the improvement of the Shaughnessy machine.

Yesterday's practice resembled work of a quick change artist. At no time during the workout did the team resemble the victors of Saturday. Every sub was given a chance to display his ware and at five minutes intervals complete changes were made and if there is a possible combination that might be used it must be an impossible one. The idea of switching the players so often was to endeavor to find out whether or not there is a better combination than the one which has been doped to start in Toronto this weekend. Stearns was used on the back line for a while but it is doubtful if he will be used against Varsity. "Flin" was also out and was showing all the old pep, but whether he will face the Blue and White is a question to which the answer is not yet forthcoming; the general surmise is, surprising to say, that he will not because there is no benefit to be gained by this plucky lad or his Alma Mater, by having him taken to the hospital when there is no necessity for it. If the team can possibly get along without him this player, much to his disgust, will be kept on the side lines and only in cases of extreme urgency will he be put into the struggle. If Flanagan does not play then Little or Russell will be moved to the back line and one of the subs who are having such a merry chase for first string honors will be used. It is a most peculiar thing that the places which were lacking in material are the ones where an overabundance of candidates are seen. Shag is better fortified with reserve wings of good quality than he has been in years and it is here that the strength of the squad manifest itself for at almost any time during the game the Red and White leader can substitute his wings without losing any great advantage. On the half line there is not such a tremendous supply of reserve material and it is sincerely hoped that the three backs who open the game will be able to last till the gong rings at the end of the contest. From the manner in which Toronto are preparing it begins to look as if they are out for gore and the McGill boys can look forward to meeting a tidy band of warriors when they come to grips in this game that means death to Varsity hopes in the event of a defeat and a new lease of life if they emerge on the fong end of the score. The battle is equally important to McGill because a win will carry with it the much coveted title of Champions whereas a loss means a rough road to the pennant with a play with Varsity in the offing. With these thoughts uppermost in the minds of these two teams who wrote football history in Montreal two short weeks ago the game should be well worth watching many miles to see and should equal in interest and intensity the titanic struggle which marked the climax of the Centennial Re-Union.

Jeff Notman came out of the practice yesterday with a broken nose. The heaviest player on the team, he made a wild plunge after the scrimmage first opened and came out with his nocal appendix dangling in an uncertain manner. However he was patched up and should not suffer much from the injury.

HOW U.S. REGARDS MILITARY DRILL

Advantages of Military Training Pointed Out.

The Military Department has on any number of occasions been asked this question, "What is there to gain by my taking military?" The answer to this question involves going into the past. The statistics of the World War show that forty-six per cent or almost one-half of the men of New England, called to the colors were turned down for some physical defect. The examination given was not one requiring a high degree of physical development, but on the other hand merely required those qualities you expect to find in every red blooded American who has taken the proper care of his body. This percentage does not include the large number of men who were accepted for service and had to be placed in "development battalions," which were organized throughout our war camps and cantonments, before they were fit for the duties of a soldier. These men, while undergoing this special training were helping the Germans and hindering the United States in two ways: first, on account of physical defects they were not able to strengthen our fighting forces in France and second, they prevented the officers and men who trained them, and who eventually corrected their defects, from being where we all were needed so badly, at the front. Thus it would seem that each citizen of the United States should consider it a solemn, patriotic duty to keep himself physically fit so that in the event of a National emergency he would not become a hindrance but a man, ready and able to answer his country's call. Physical training will form an essential part of the military instruction here. Each man in the corps is instructed how to stand erectly so that all equal opportunity for development. The position of a soldier, or "attention" is a perfectly natural one in which all the organisms of the body are in the proper position and from which they do their work most efficiently. The importance of acquiring the habit of correct posture and the harmful effects of a slouching and stooping carriage is impressed upon all the members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Through the means of physical exercises the body is developed, the mind awakened and the two are co-ordinated. To illustrate the matter of co-ordination: Have you ever noticed a beginner trying to dance; have you ever noticed a recruit in getting his first instructions in the school of the soldier? If you have, then you must agree that both examples are the height of awkwardness and indecision. If you had cared to follow the recruit in this training you would have found in a month, instead of the slouching, awkward person, an erect, graceful soldier with head up, eyes habitually off the ground, with the body answering instantly and correctly each and every call made upon it from a wide awake and willing mind. This is co-ordination.

Some of the things that one can get out of military are: a well developed physique; a proper and correct posture; a wide awake mind; grace and poise. The main feature, however, is the fact that you are taught how to stand, how to take care of your body and how to use it. In addition and possibly the most important is the teaching of good citizenship, through the cultivation of the fundamentals of honor, judgment, a decent respect for law and order, and love of country.

A tradition enforced by violence at Knox College is the observance of rough neck week in the spring. At this time all razors and cosmetics are quietly laid to rest for one week.

HARRIER RUN VICTORY FOR SCIENCE MEN

Egerton Wins Race Over Five Mile Course.

FAST TIME MADE.

All of the Fifteen Starters Finish in Exciting Race.

Science harriers won the final Inter-faculty Harrier Run of the season yesterday afternoon but Norm. Egerton, of the Arts Faculty led the field of fifteen runners and finished the course, which covered a distance of well over five miles, in the fast time of 34 min. 1-3-5 sec. Egerton set a hard pace and outdistanced the other runners by a considerable margin, reaching the finish line 2 min. 28-2-5. ahead of his nearest competitor, Owens, of Science. Legg also of Science, and Wade, of Medicine, staged the only close finish of the day, Legg pulling ahead of his man on the last lap of the track. All the runners were successful in finishing the course and this in itself is an encouraging fact. The order in which the runners crossed the finish line was as follows: Egerton, Owens, Legg, Wade, Stephen, Copeland, Antliff, Willoughby, Gross; Creelman, Dempsey, Girling, Hall Alexander, Ogilvie. With the exception of the first two men, the runners finished in close order and in consequence they all made fairly good time.

As a result of yesterday's run the men were picked to represent McGill in the Dunlop Road Race, which is being held on Saturday. McGill is entering two teams in this run and the following men have been chosen for the first team: Egerton, Owens, Legg, Wade, Stephen, Wiggins. Six men out of the following eight will constitute the second team, while the two men who are not chosen for the team will run unattached: Campbell, Antliff, Willoughby, Bishop, McNider, Gross, Creelman and Dempsey. Although Wiggins, Bishop and McNider did not take part in yesterday's run, these men have all shown prowess in the past and are sure to make a good showing on Saturday. The above men are all asked to be at the North Branch Y. M. C. A. before half past two on Saturday afternoon.

Teams from many parts of the country are being entered in this event and it is expected that the competition will be very keen. The team for the Intercollegiate Meet, to be held at Kingston in the very near future, will be picked at the discretion of the Harrier Executive, from the results of the Dunlop Road Race at the end of this week.

E. T. CLUB SHOWS ENTHUSIASM

Membership May Be Opened to R. V. C.

The opening meeting of the Eastern Townships Club was held at Strathcona Hall yesterday afternoon. Almost all of last year's members were present, and from the enthusiasm displayed it promises well for the success of the Club this season. It was noticeable, however, that there were few new members wishing to join the club. The executive are very anxious that more freshmen should join the group, as no university club can continue to remain a success unless each session new members are enrolled to take the places of those that graduate.

The meeting was of an informal nature, and smokes were passed around. The first item on the programme was the election of officers for this year. The result was as follows:

Honorary President—The Hon. W. J. Mitchell.
President—A. S. Johnson.
Vice-President—H. L. Banfill.
Secretary—J. B. Woodman.
Treasurer—H. A. Holtham.
The membership committee was left in charge of H. Cousens and the Social and Publicity Committees were put in the control of the executive.

Some very important discussions then took place. It was unanimously voted that the President and Vice-President should interview Miss Hurlbatt about the advisability of having R. V. C. students take membership in the Club. This would not only increase the numbers of the Club, but from the enthusiasm displayed in this discussion it would give an added interest to the present members in their future activities.

The Club expects to take an active part in the Mock Trial. They are at present forming a Farmer's Party in conjunction with the Western Club. Dances and smokes are among the

THE FRESHMEN'S ISSUE

It's coming next Wednesday. An issue devoted entirely to Freshmen — and Freshettes.

Everyone has something that would be interesting for the paper that day. The senior year can tell what they think of the freshmen and the freshmen, within the limits allowed by the Committee on Morals and Discipline, can tell what they think of the upper years.

Whoever tells it, we want it told soon. Send in your contributions as early as possible. A few good cartoons could be used. Nothing can be accepted for the issue later than Monday at 1.00 p.m.

We're away! Josh the Frosh!

COM. JUNIOR WIN OVER MED '23

Commercial Jubilant Over Win at Baseball.

The second game in the McGill Indoor Baseball League was played last night, when the two Junior classes in Commerce and Medicine battled hard for supremacy — the Commercial finally overwhelming their Med. opponents, who "blew up" shortly after they had piled up a lead of eight runs. When the smoke lifted Commerce '22 was in the lead and increasing it rapidly. The final score was 35-16 with the saw-bones at the short end of the score. Throughout the game the hard-hitting of Norm. Wallace, Carruthers and McKinnon proved too much for the Meds. The last started with a home run and a three bugger to his credit, while his fine pitching sent many doctors back to the bench.

Harwood and Anglin pitched for Med '23 and did well until the hard hitting Commercial got their number. Campbell, Ballon and Ackman must also be mentioned for their good work for the losers.

The following is the line up of the two teams:

Commerce '22.	Medicine '23.
Catcher.
P. Drummond	Acker Pitcher.
McKinnon	Harwood First Base.
Carruthers	H. Campbell Second Base.
N. Wallace (capt.)	I. Anglin (capt.) Short Stop.
Burke	Ballon Third Base.
Smith	Dawson Left Field.
Elderkin	Everett Centre Field.
Stein	Boone Right Field.
Wyndatt	Ackman

The Meds however, refuse to be disheartened by their defeat last night; it has only made them determined to take the hide and hair off their next opponents. They know how to handle a ball and invite all unbelievers to their next game to watch them perform the hat trick.

The League is well under way now and from present indications — with the boys showing such fine spirit and determination to stick to it — this should be a banner year for indoor baseball.

SONG BOOK OUT ON SALE TO-DAY

Will be Delivered in all Buildings.

After long discussions, and conferences in regard to the publication of the "Song Book" the day has come when it will be on sale. And to-day, is the day.

The committee who has worked very hard to have the Song Book published announces with pleasure that complete order lists are in their hands, and that the books will be delivered in all the buildings, this afternoon.

Those who have not yet ordered their Song Books are requested to do so at once. The number published is limited, and it is very likely that it will be exhausted within a short time.

Students should obtain their copies at once, "first come first served!"

Horse-shoe pitching is one of the new sports at Iowa State College. A meet with Drake is scheduled, and contests with other colleges are being arranged.

winter activities that the Club will take part in. Arrangements are now being made with the Richmond Club to hold a dance at Alexander's Hall, Westmount. A smoker will be held some time after Thanksgiving. The Club is desirous of obtaining a special clubroom, and the attention of the executive are at present centred on this matter. Everything points to a very successful year for the Eastern Townships Club.

TENNIS TEAM PLAYS TO-DAY FOR THE CUP

Blue and White Given Chance at Title.

LAST OF SEASON

Captain Ramsay, Veteran Star is McGill Mainstay.

The McGill Tennis team which defeated Queens and R.M.C. in the recent tournament held here during the Centennial Re-union week, and thereby gained possession, for another year, of the cup, emblematic of the Intercollegiate Tennis championship, will meet the Varsity squad on the Campus courts this afternoon at 1.30.

The Blue and White was unable to be represented at the tournament, and the McGill management decided to afford Toronto an opportunity of lifting the trophy. To-day's match will decide who shall be the champions for 1921.

The 'Varsity aggregation is composed of several veterans who expect to take the trophy back to the Queen City, but the Red and White outfit feel confident of their ability to keep the slate clean.

The team, although composed almost entirely of newcomers, has thus far made a very creditable showing, and enter the contest slight favorites to win. Ramsay is the only member of the squad who played last year, and around him, as a nucleus, has been built a very steady playing team. The McGill captain showed his ability against Queens on the 15th, when, having lost the first two sets to McLachlan, by the score of 6-4, 6-4, he braced up and took three in a row from the tri-color star, score 6-1, 6-1, 6-3. McGill seemed to have everything their own way, for out of a possible sixteen points Queens could gather only four, while R.M.C. was unable to score.

Barring inclement weather to-day, the courts should be in excellent condition for the match, and keen competition will certainly be witnessed by the spectators.

A large turnout of undergraduates is looked for this afternoon, to see the racquet wielders in action for the last time this year. The team will consist of the same men who participated in the previous match, namely—

Ramsay,
Douglas,
Brown,
McDougall,
Morris,
Parker.

RUGGER TEAM OUT TO TRIM VARSITY

McGill and Varsity Clash at Stadium Saturday.

The final heavy work-out of the Rugger team took place yesterday. Two full teams were out and a good practice was held. The three-quarters work has improved a good deal this week under Coach Matthews tuition. The forwards have shown more stamina and "pep" than previously. Taken altogether, Saturday's team is going to be the fastest fifteen who have ever worn the Red and White since Maurice Busby's squad of 1914. As 'Varsity have a fast light team a closely contested game is sure to result when the two clash at the Stadium on Saturday.

A light work-out will be held today at 3.30 P. M. The team will be chosen from the following men.

Backs:—Bradshaw, Hay, Anglin, McDougall, Beardsley, Maipole, Manson.

Halves:—J. McIntosh, C. A. McIntosh, Kemp. Forwards:—Lochead, McLean, Witmore, Wilson, Patterson, Cleland, Buden, Rankin, Brown.

The above men only will turn out to-day for formation practice. Every man must be out. The Executive of the Club appreciates the college spirit of the second team men who have sacrificed lectures and clinics to attend the practice games.

After Saturday's game there will be a distinct let-up in the English Rugby drive. Little or no time will be spent on the first team. The attention of the Clubs will be directed towards the formation of the Sectional League that was such a success last year. A meeting of enthusiasts will be held next week. Announcement of the date will be made in the "Daily" next week.

PROF. HICKSON TO TALK ON SPIOZA

Maccabean Circle Will Hear Lecture Next Sunday Afternoon.

The Maccabean Circle will meet this Sunday at the Army and Navy Veterans Hall, 602 St. Catherine St. W.

Dr. J. W. Hickson of the Department of Philosophy will address the Circle on "The Greatness of Spinoza". The speaker is very well known to the circle members and a large attendance is expected.

Spinoza is perhaps the greatest philosopher that the Jewish people have produced. His philosophy ranks with that of the other great philosophers Hume, Descartes, Locke, Kant, and like their philosophy his also was in advance of his time.

The remainder of the programme includes a reading by Miss Annie Tarsis B. A. and a piano solo by Gerald Fels. The meeting will commence at 2.30 o'clock.

gym. will be open until 7 p.m. to allow time for showers. Bring your own towels and soap. All up to-night, Union, 5 p.m.

R. V. C. 3rd and 4th YEAR. Physical Education Department for Women.

Third and Fourth Years, please note—The Strathcona Trust Course in Physical Education (for certificate B) will be held at the following hours: Monday, at 4 p.m.—for Fourth year only.

Tuesday, at 3 p.m.—for Fourth and Third Years.

Friday, at 3 p.m.—for Fourth and Third Years.

As forty-five hours' work is required in this course, students in Fourth Year will have to attend three periods per week. The above hours suit all who have registered for this course, with the exception of a few students. These latter can perhaps re-arrange their time-tables.

This course begins on Friday next, the 28th inst., at 3 p.m.

Sgd. E. M. CARTWRIGHT, Physical Director for Women.

R. V. C. THE DANTSANT. Tickets for the R.V.C. Sports and The Dantsant, to be held on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 29th, are on sale at the Union and Strathcona Hall, or may be obtained from R.V.C. students. They are 75 cents for single tickets.

VARSITY-MCGILL GAME.

Present Industrial Depression Given as Reason.

Enrolments, surpassing all previous records, are reported by universities and colleges throughout the country. So startling indeed, is this increase that 1921-22 will probably prove to be, from the point of view of numbers, the annus mirabilis of the world of higher education in the United States.

In New York City two universities—Columbia and the College of the City of New York—have admitted this Fall 32,000 students. This means that 2,000 more men and women are studying to-day in these two institutions than during 1920-21 attended all the ten universities of England. And in the principal institutions of higher or technical learning in New York City it is estimated that 70,000 students will work this year, under the direction of 3,000 professors and instructors.

But these registration figures, significant as they are, do not reflect the full desire of this year's generation of students to obtain a college education. Applications in many cases passed the limits of teaching facilities and dormitory accommodations. Dartmouth, for instance, officially announced that she was compelled to refuse admission to 1,500 applicants, and Columbia has turned away about 800 persons who failed to meet her different entrance requirements.

The existence of all "higher learning" has been attributed to the "idle curiosity" and the "instinct of workmanship" inherent in the human race. It is doubtful, however, if this generalization—adequate thought it may be as an explanation of the origin and steady growth of so-called learning—will account for the present phenomenon. It would be difficult to prove that there is in the United States today more "idle curiosity" and "instinct of workmanship" than there was last year. Another and more timely explanation must be found.

The prevailing industrial depression has been given by many educators, including Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education for Massachusetts, as a cause of the unusual number of men and women who wish to put in a year of study. The difficulty of getting desirable jobs has induced many young people to return to school and prepare themselves for even better ones.

In some institutions, however, a large per cent. of the students are more or less dependent upon their earnings from part-time employment. In the College of the City of New York as high as 75 per cent. of the student body belong to this class. And yet, despite the difficulty of obtaining any sort of work the total registration at the College of the City of New York has increased 21 per cent. and for the freshman class 66 per cent. Another explanation of the record-breaking enrolments is that the value of higher education is recognized as never before. Army life is said to have had much to do with impressing this upon the public mind. The officers were drawn largely from the college class, and the value of a trained mind and the mastery of some definite field of knowledge.

By a large vote in the popular elections at the University of Wisconsin, the students reinstated class rushes and green caps. Class rushes were brought back by a vote of 1,286 to 379 and green caps by 1,431 to 248.

ledge meant advancement in all branches of the service.

It is also being recalled that a revival of learning has always followed foreign wars. Education was certainly stimulated by the Crusade, the Hundred Years' War, the Italian expeditions of Francis I. and Napoleon. The broadened horizon and the quickened imagination of the returning soldier is easily communicated, because of his military prestige, to his family and friends.

That there is something permanent and substantial that may well have come out of so supreme an experience as the war in the present widespread eagerness for learning is indicated by the fact that increased enrollments are reported in all sections of the country. They are also not confined to any type of institution and, within any given university, are distributed more or less evenly through the different departments and professional schools.

This surplusage of students has had several effects upon the institutions that are coping with it. One result has been a general broadening of curriculums, as a glance at the current announcements, especially of the extension departments of the great city universities, will show. The demand for new courses is now usually supported by enough students to carry weight with the most conservative administrative director or Faculty committee.

Another effect of the present situation is to take the wind out of the sails of those who have criticised American universities for basing their administration any but the interested parties. Now business," Professor Thorstein Veblen, in his much-discussed book on "The Higher Learning in America," wrote:

It is one of the unwritten, and commonly unspoken, commonplaces lying at the root of modern academic policy that the various universities are competitors for the traffic in merchantable instruction, in much the same fashion that rival establishments in the retail trade compete for custom. Indeed, the modern department store offers a felicitous analogy, that has already been found serviceable in illustration of the American university's position in this respect by those who speak for the present regime as well as by its critics. The fact that the universities are assumed to be irreconcilable competitors, both in the popular apprehension and as evidenced by the manoeuvres of their several directors, is too notorious to be denied by one and another among the competing captains of education, but the reason for such denial is the need of it.

Circumstances, for the present at least, have deprived all such charges of any force that they may once have had. There is no longer the necessity or even the temptation for American universities to compete for students. The Registrar's figures have solved that problem. As has been widely emphasized in the press and in the addresses of welcome to many university heads, to-day it is a matter of selecting who are the most deserving, and how best an educational institution can do its duty by those whom it undertakes to equip for the work of life.

This brings up some old questions. What sort of man is an educated man? Should the emphasis be laid on the subject matter taught or the method of instruction? Should a university aim to be a microcosm of the world around it and college life approach a replica of life outside of college walls? Or was Lord Randolph Churchill uttering a profound pedagogic truth when, in speaking of Oxford as it was in this time, he thanked God that there still was a place where the sons of the educated and cultured "could go and unweaved by the common herd study nothing that was useful?"—New York "Times."

GEOLOGISTS HOLD THIRD EXCURSION

(Concluded.)

The rock Anorthosite occurs in several areas throughout the Pre-Cambrian Shield to the north of the St. Lawrence Plain. As a general rule this rock is intrusive into the Laurentian granite at which contact it stands up somewhat abruptly as prominent hills.

The nearest Anorthosite locality is at Morin, where it underlies an area of six thousand square miles. Another area stretches from the Saguenay River and Lake St. John, parallel to the St. Lawrence River to near the Labrador coast.

Associated with these Anorthosites are large bodies and lenses of titaniferous iron ores which at present are not utilized owing to difficulties met in smelting. These titaniferous magnetites segregated out, while the anorthosite was molten and at great depth, by many small particles of iron ore, some of which are still retained, separating out from the molten magma.

Following the intrusion of the magma came a prolonged period of erosion during which the overlying rocks were weathered and removed from the surface.

After this the land was slowly submerged beneath the waters of an ocean, the Pre-Cambrian era came to an end, and the Cambrian period began. Sticking up in the Cambrian ocean were many rocks and rocky islands of which the Cartierville anorthosite was one. Around these islands and the edge of the Pre-Cambrian Shield, sandstone was being laid down which is called the Potsdam sandstone. The sandstone is very pure, and during subsequent times has been converted by solution and removal of the ferro-magnesian minerals to a hard white quartzite, pebbles of which, brought here by the glacier, were found by some of the class. Subsequent deposition has covered up most of this sandstone, and the nearest locality in which it is found is at Lachute, 45 miles west of here.

Lying unconformably on the Potsdam sandstone is the Beekmantown formation or the Calciferous sandy dolomite. This is quite well shown in the River bed, where the C.P.R. crosses the North River. The Calciferous sandy dolomite is just what the name implies. It is a yellowish dolomite with a few grains of sand. The unconformity between it and the underlying formations shows that there has been an erosion interval and earth movements preceding its deposition. The same is true of any unconformity.

Lying conformably on the Beekmantown and typically exposed in the quarries at Cartierville is the Chezy limestone. This limestone is characterized by a great abundance of fossils, and in fact it may be called an aqueous fossil breccia. Limestones are deposited in still, deep water far out from the shore, so that at this period the Anorthosite island at Cartierville must have been plunged many hundreds of feet below the surface of the Chezy oceans. Some of the animals living at this time were the brachiopods, Singula, Orthids, Rhynchonella, Strophomena, Dolmanella and Platystrophia.

Lying on top of the Chezy limestone is the Trenton limestone and Utica Shale, neither of which are exposed at Cartierville.

Long after the deposition of these limestone beds came the intrusion of Mount Royal and the other Montegregian Hills, stretching from Lake Memphremagog in the east to Oka and St. Lin on the west. Many dikes and shunts broke through the limestones and spread out between the beds. One of these dykes was seen in the quarry at Cartierville. It is dark in color, showing it to be very basic. In this dark ground mass were light colored minerals, quite large; these are called phenocrysts. The dyke is of special interest, because it is really a dyke within a dyke, that is, it is a compound dyke. The first dyke came in, heated and baked the limestone, then while the other was still hot the second dyke broke through it. The surrounding rocks being still hot when the second dyke came in, it is more coarsely crystalline, and is marked from the other older dyke by dark bands on either side.

About this time a car came in sight and brought about a general migration on the part of the class in the direction of the station.

Preparations are being made to observe the fortieth anniversary of Bethany founding, October 27-30. Friday, October 29, the pioneers' day a historical pageant will occupy an important part in the program of the anniversary festival. On the closing day of the celebration the "Messiah" chorus will sing such songs as have been presented by this organization in the past.

"Toledo University," Toledo, Ohio, no longer exists. The name has been changed to the "University of the City of Toledo." In support of its action the council points out that the new name will indicate the municipal feature of the institution.

According to "The Teaser" of the University of Toledo, a dancing class has been inaugurated by the faculty for the purpose of mastering the principles of the "Cat Walk," "Bowery Wobble," and various other modern dances.

SPECIAL NOTICE

We can offer very good profits to a few McGill students who can use their spare time very advantageously between now and Christmas by introducing our Gold Seal private greeting cards to fellow students.

Gold Seal cards are very high class, exceedingly popular and sell practically on sight. We are making a specialty by putting the McGill Crest on same, so this is an attractive proposition.
